One Heart Worldwide Nepal

Nepal has one of the highest rates of maternal neo-natal mortality (women dying in childbirth) in the world. In many areas, women do not have access to skilled services or a safe facility in which to deliver. They risk their lives to give birth

Because of this a Nepali woman dies in childbirth every eight hours. Every hour two Nepali newborns die, most before they are even one day old. Almost all of these deaths are preventable.

One Heart World-Wide was founded on the belief that access to lifesaving healthcare is a human right. It builds fully-equipped birthing centers that dramatically lower the number of women dying in childbirth. It trains local midwives, provides modern, sanitary equipment, and drives sustainable change from within the communities it serves. In the process, One Heart Worldwide is saving lives now and into the future.
